  - Set left margins to exactly 1.5 inches on all pages, except the title page.
    - Title page: Set all margins to exactly 1 inch.

- Font
  - Select and use with consistency an easy-to-read 10- or 12-point font throughout your paper including the formatting of all headings, subheadings, etc.
  - Do not use script or italic typefaces within the main text.

- Spacing
  - Double-space all preliminary pages, main text pages, and appendices.
  - Single-space footnotes, endnotes, references, and bibliography entries.
  - Quotations:
    - Single-space prose quotations of four or more lines. Indent five spaces from the left margin with no additional indentation of the first line of text.
    - Single-space verse quotations of two or more lines. Center within the margins.

- Numbering
  - Preliminary pages:
    - Set lowercase Roman numerals, centered, exactly .5 inch from the bottom of the page. To do this, create a new section for your main body (Page Layout–Breaks–Section Break), then edit your header/footer for the second section, making sure that “Link to Previous” is not selected on the top menu bar.
- Do not number the title page. Begin numbering on the abstract page as ii.

  - Begin numbering on the first main page of text as 1.

  - Double-space the copyright page.
  - Do not number the copyright page.

  - A copyright page must be included if statutory copyright in the doctoral dissertation has been or will be claimed. For details, see Copyright Law and the Doctoral Dissertation: Guidelines to Your Legal Rights and Responsibilities, Kenneth D. Crews, UMI, 1996. The benefits of registration with the U.S. Office of Copyright include the following:
    - Necessary before an infringement suit may be filed in court
    - If made before or within 5 years of publication, registration will establish prima facie evidence in court of the validity of the copyright
    - Statutory damages and attorney’s fees will be available in court actions; otherwise, only an award of actual damages and profits is available.
    - Allows the copyright owner to record the registration with the U.S. Customs Service for protection against the importation of infringing copies
    - If you have questions about the copyright process, email copyright@rutgers.edu

Images and Media
The Library of Congress keeps a list of materials exempted from the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DCMA), which includes fair use of short video clips in educational materials. You can see the complete list by visiting http://www.loc.gov/today/pr/2010/10-169.html.

- Any images or other media cited in the document must not be included in the ETD PDF document. Each image or media cited must be submitted as a separate, “supplementary” file. This allows the University to have discrete control over any access restrictions due to copyright or permissions without needing to restrict the entire document. It also allows for images to be submitted in higher resolutions than would be possible by embedding them in PDF documents.

- A list of illustrations/figures, citing any images/media referred to within the ETD document, must be included in the preliminary pages of the paper. All images/media must be labeled in accordance with this list.
- If you have acquired permission to use a work, or the work is available in the Public Domain or under a non-restrictive copyright license, please state so when uploading.
- Please see the image and media preservation guidelines for the Rutgers University Community Repository (RUcore). Your files do not have to strictly conform to these standards, but doing so will guarantee optimal preservation of the submitted works.
- Graphs, figures, tables, charts, maps, and photographs must be suitably sharp and clear.

When Submitting

- A PDF copy of the dissertation that strictly adheres to the format described in this guide must be submitted to https://etd.libraries.rutgers.edu/login.php.
- Any images or media cited in the document must each be submitted as separate “supplementary” files. Please see the section on “Images and Media” for more details.
- Submit a hard copy with signatures to Chris Kubik at The Graduate School of Arts and Science at 211 N. 5th Street, Camden, NJ 08102.
- Decide if you want an embargo for your work.
  - There are four different embargo options: six months, one year, two years, and permanent. Having an embargo means that the public will not be able to view your PDF document and supplementary files for this determined period of time. Ask your graduate director if the embargo option is right for you. If this is something you and your graduate director believe you should have, email Chris Kubik at chris.kubik@rutgers.edu with your name, program, and choice of embargo.
  - If you prefer to grant the public immediate access to your work, you do not need to select the embargo option.
- Decide if you want to submit your work to ProQuest. ProQuest is an online site that will make your work easily accessible to those researching the topic you covered. There is a cost to using ProQuest, and the student must use their own funds to cover the cost. It is $65 for ProQuest to publish your work, and it is $130 for ProQuest to publish and copyright your work. More information can be found on the following site: http://www.proquest.com/en-US/. Students also have the option to copyright their own work by themselves, and can do this by visiting http://www.copyright.gov/eco. For general information about copyrighting, visit http://www.copyright.gov/help/faq.
